GREAT DEMONSTRATION ON LIBERTY LOAN DAY

Appeals to Help Government are Warmly Applauded.

BONDS MEAN VICTORY

Liberty Loan day in Bellefonte, Friday was celebrated in a quiet way. The big Liberty Loan demonstration in the evening, however, showed that the people of Bellefonte and Centre County were becoming thoroughly aroused to the menace of the Hun. Several thousand people were in town and witnessed the street pageant which was pronounced one of the finest and greatest events of kind in the history of the town. The parade was headed by automobiles carrying Col. J. L. Spangler, Charles M. McCurdy, Lieut. Might, Burgess W. Harrison Walker and A. G. Morris. Then followed one of the striking features, the Girls Band of Milesburg. They are all young in years and are fast becoming thorough musicians. Following were the L. O. O. M. automobile, G. A. R., ladies in automobiles representing the Red Cross, Red Men in their regalia, Bellefonte Chapter of the Red Cross, P. O. S. of A., the Moose in regalia, Boys Band, of Milesburg, Logan and Undine Fire Companies, the Academy students, Coleville band, about one thousand school children carrying flags and banners with inscriptions relative to the purchasing of bonds. One of the unique features of the parade was four boys carrying a dummy on a stretcher which represented that they had caught the Kaiser. This was followed by the students of the High School.

There were so many people in town that it was deemed wise to have an overflow meeting in Garman's Opera House. The speakers of the evening were Lieut. F. G. Might, of the 18th Canadian Infantry, Col. J. L. Spangler and George Bible who was on the Red Cross Commission which went to France to study the work done there. These gentlemen spoke alternately in the Court House and Opera House. In the Court House the music was furnished by the Girls Band and community singing was led by Russel Blair. C. M. McCurdy, chairman of the Third Liberty Loan Committee, presided and made a very strong interesting address. He made it clear that his impression of the war was that the Allies were going to win and related many circumstances that led him to that belief. While this is true, he said, it behooves us as American citizens to furnish our soldiers with everything necessary to win the war, especially food, guns and ammunition. To do this everybody should do their bit by purchasing a Liberty Bond. He then introduced Lieut. Might, of Montreal, Canada, who was in the front trenches and was wounded twice. After paying a tribute to the Canadian troops, he made a comparison of the population of Canada and United States and stated that the latter would have to have to have eleven million of men in France to be equal in ratio with his country. He paid a glowing tribute to President Wilson. He also spoke in high terms of the Belgians who have played such a well and important part in the war. To win the war the boys in the trenches will do their best, he remarked, but the people at home must not be slackers. His story of the several battles he was in and at the front was very interesting, especially when he talked about the shells of the enemy whizzing all around them, digging up the ground both in the front and rear. His stories of the war as he found things in the trenches were interesting but space will not permit us to go into detail. Before entering the war Lieut. Might had charge of the public schools in Montreal and on account of his eyes was compelled to try the second time to get into the service. After he was wounded twice he left the hospital on a tour of this part of the United States to inform the people of the seriousness of the war.

The next speaker was Col. Spangler who stated that the Kaiser was an egotist of the worst type. Alexander and Napoleon tried to conquer the world and failed. The Kaiser thought this was the opportune time for him to try it and he will finally come to utter ruin. He stated that 33 percent of the population of the United States was German and they were among the very best people of the country. To find them he said, go down through Lancaster and Berks counties and you will observe them to be intelligent, loyal people. To win the war the nation must mobilize its man power to the last man, and if necessary its wealth, to the very last farthing, must be spent. The people at home must back up the boys in the trenches by sending supplies of every character. There are no free citizens in Germany. They are all subject to the cruel Kaiser who knows no respect for humanity, not even for helpless, innocent children. Put down this damned monster of Europe by winning the war. Subscribe for a Liberty Bond and do your part to keep Kaiserism from our country.

The next speaker was Prof. George Bible, of Bellefonte, who was a member of the American Red Cross Commission who was sent to France to examine into conditions there and see whether the money, clothing and other articles were reaching the right place. Since going to France he has learned from practical experience of the atrocities of the Germans. No pen picture can portray them. Millions of orphans are being left homeless. In order to get homes for some of them pictures of these little children are thrown on a screen with the idea of some relative recognizing them. He spoke of a spy that was on their boat and when he reached his designation his face was placed to the wall and the reader knows the rest. The Red Cross is doing a wonderful work over there in the hospitals and in the trenches. He was in the hospital when they brought in Kermit Roosevelt wounded. His friends wanted him to return to America to recuperate but he refused, saying that just as soon as he might he would go back into the firing line.

Received a Large Order.

The Abramsen Manufacturing Co., of Bellefonte, has been moving along in the even tenor of its way without any outward demonstration as to what it has been doing. In its employ there are quite a number of skilled mechanics at good wages. The company's specialty is making iron rod straightening machinery which is very heavy and expensive. To manufacture this machinery which are very heavy and expensive. To manufacture this machinery it takes time and care.

On Monday the enterprising firm received an order for nine of these machines which means employment to the men for six months over and about what work the company has on hand. One of these machines is for Pittsburg and it being larger than ordinary it will be built in that city. This is a good reliable firm and is certainly one of Bellefonte's assets, and it should be regarded as such. The managers are straightforward men and do business in a business way. This progressive firm is now making preparations to build rolling mills which are also in great demand, and no doubt some day the company will give employment to a larger number of men. Let us hope for its further success.

New Sugar Regulations.

Until further notice retailers in Centre County are authorized to sell sugar in the following quantities:—

To consumers residing in towns and cities, 2 to 5 pounds, depending on size of families.

To consumers residing in rural communities, 5 to 10 pounds.

Plans are being formulated and will be announced shortly whereby home canners will be provided with adequate supplies for preserving purposes, so there need be no apprehension in the minds of consumers in this particular.

Marriage Licenses.

Register Frank Sasserman has issued the following marriage licenses:

Grace Rachao,
Claude J. Witmer,	Penna. Furnace
Della M. Rockey,	State College
Edmund Waring,	Tyrone

Odd Fellows Celebrate.

The Pennsylvania Odd Fellows anniversary association which met in thirty-fourth annual session in Odd Fellows hall at Williamsport Friday afternoon and evening, re-elected all the present officers of the association and decided to meet again in that city next year. The usual parade and other demonstrations were omitted this year on account of the war. The association comprises eighteen counties and was organized in 1885 to celebrate the founding of Odd Fellowship in the United States.

An Appeal.

On April 1st the amount of $81.25 was sent from Bellefonte and vicinity to the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian relief. I shall again forward money on May 6th and will be very glad to receive any contributions before that time. The need in Syria and Armenia is desperate and continually increasing.

Mary H. Linn, Chairman.

LOCAL SCHOOL BOARD CUTS STUDY OF GERMAN

Orders it Stricken from High School Curriculum.

NO TIME FOR "KULTUR"

The following preamble and resolution was unanimously adopted by the Bellefonte School Board on April 24th:

WHEREAS—For a number of years we have been led to believe that the study of the German language in our public schools has been necessary for the culture and language drill that it gives to the students as well as its commercial value.

WHEREAS—The horrible war that is devastating the world has opened our eyes to a good many things; among them the cruel mind and heart of the German nation. We believe that if German "Kultur" has turned a nation into a nation of blood-thirsty savages,—the less we have to do with that form of culture the better American citizens we will be, and the better patriots our boys and girls will become.

WHEREAS—A careful inquiry among business and professional men has revealed the fact that the study of the German language has been of no real commercial value to them; while some of them have declared that it was just so much valuable time wasted.

WHEREAS—An examination of German text books shows that many of them sound the praises of the Kaiser and the superior character of the German nation all of which reveals a well planned scheme for Germanizing our American schools and a means of giving comfort to our common enemy. Therefore, be it, RESOLVED FIRST—That, as a patriotic duty, we, the Bellefonte School Board, hereby decide and order that the study of German be at once eliminated from the curriculum of the Bellefonte High School.

SECOND—That, beginning with the date of the adoption of these Resolutions, the German language be discontinued, forbidden and prohibited as a study in the Bellefonte High School; nor shall it be included in any course of study offered to the pupils in any of the schools under the direction and control of our board.

Hang out a New Flag.

On making the rounds of the business portions of Bellefonte Friday, "Liberty Loan Day," we found new flags floating to the breeze, from the following business places and homes; H. C. Yeager, boots & shoes; Whitlock Lime Co.; Weaver Bros., groceries; First National Bank; J. O. Heverly, auto supplies; John Olewine, hardware store; Spigelmeyer & Co., Variety Shop; Thomas Shaghenessy, pool and billiards; Bellefonte Trust Co.; Garman House, August Glinz proprietor; James Schofield, harness dealer; W. R. Brachbill, furniture dealer; W. H. Miller's home; William Fitzgerald's home; Mrs. John I. Olewine's home, Mr. Olsen's home, Petriken Hall.

The fact is all the old dilapidated flags in Bellefonte and throughout Centre County should be taken down and new ones should take their places. This is considered by the War Department as a patriotic duty on the part of the civilians.

Reception for Rev. Wagner.

A reception was tendered Rev. J. V. L. Wagner, the new pastor of the Hicks Memorial Methodist Episcopal church of Duncansville, recently. After the prayer meeting the ladies of the church called the large congregation of members and friends to the festal hall in the basement of the church where a fine luncheon was served. G. W. Hoover, acting as toastmaster, called on Prof. H. S. Wertz to make the address of welcome. Rev. Wagner responded with an interesting talk.

Opportunity for Young Men.

Young men who will come in the new class to be registered for military service on June 5th, have the opportunity to choose their branch of service if they enlist before the passage of the bill by Congress. Since the measure has already passed the senate, there will be little time for young men to make up their minds. A recruiting rally will be held in Williamsport on the 27th of the month.

W. Tipton Fuller Dead.

Word has been received in Bellefonte of the death of William Tipton Fuller, a former member of congress from Iowa and at one time assistant attorney general. He died last Sunday at Washington, D. C. Mr. Fuller was born at Howard, Centre County.

THE ACADEMY SERVICE FLAG

Lieut. Might Assists in the Dedication
Service Sunday Afternoon.

There is an old maxim "better the deed than the word" which must have been in the mind of James R. Hughes, headmaster of the Bellefonte Academy, when he designated last Sabbath afternoon for the dedication of the Academy Service Flag which contained one hundred and thirty stars. It was a very devout crowd which gathered on the Academy Hill to do honor to the boys who represent that famous institution at the front of the battle in France and in several of the military camps throughout the United States. About 2:30 o'clock the Girls Band of Milesburg, in charge of Frank Wetzler, moved from the High School building and marched south on Allegheny Street. They were followed by the Academy students carrying a large flag. The band played popular military airs. Arriving at the Academy the opening prayer was made by Dr. R. H. Yocum, pastor of the Methodist church. This was followed by a patriotic song by the students entitled "The Star Spangled Banner," after which Headmaster J. R. Hughes gave the audience some idea of the significance of the occasion. He showed that the Bellefonte Academy was one of the most loyal, patriotic institutions in the United States. It was marvelous that on this occasion he could point to one hundred and thirty men who have gone out from that institution to serve their country. He looked with pride upon such a record. He also gave a very short synopsis of the war and said he was positive we were going to win although it may take several years. He stated he was over in DuBois the other day and witnessed a Liberty Loan parade. One of the significant things he saw in line was several children in a pony cart. The banner over them contained the following words: "We gave our Dad what have you given?" It was something that started men to thinking. The other speakers were Lieut. Might, Col. J. L. Spangler, Dr. W. K. McKinley and Col. Taylor. They all paid high tribute to the excellent record made by the Academy and then spoke of the great war in general. These addresses were spirited and full of life.

Three Automobile Accidents.

Sunday Orvis Lee, of Coleville, with another gentleman was coming from the direction of Lock Haven in a new Ford car. When in the vicinity of Hubbersburg something went wrong with the steering gear. The result was he lost control of the machine and in a twinkling of an eye it darted over about two feet of embankment, breaking down a pannel of fence and running quite a distance into the field. Fortunately no person was hurt but there were several marks on the radiator and the steering gear was put out of commission. The young man with Mr. Lee was so badly frightened that he remarked at the time, he didn't know where he was going to take his breakfast next morning. With little expense the car was repaired.

Monday Frank Grebe, the proprietor of the Sheffer House, Phillipsburg, drove over to Bellefonte in a new Buick automobile of which he was very proud. In the afternoon about six o'clock he drove the car in the direction of Coleville for the purpose of going home by the back road. When rounding the corner at the Thomas stone house Mr. Grebe ran over a high embankment, the result being that the new car was badly wrecked. The top was torn off, windshield broken and lights smashed. The driver escaped injury.

The new foreman at the Titan Metal Company's operations is Thomas W. Williams. About two weeks ago he moved into the stone house which is known as the Valentine home, just south of town. After the works had closed down Monday evening Mr. Williams got on the Titan automobile truck to ride as far as his home. Arriving at his destination he jumped off the truck in front of a car was driven by Clyde Lambert of Milesburg and knocked down. His legs were bent double under the machine and when released it was thought his back had been broken. He was placed on the truck and taken to the hospital where an examination disclosed the fact that while he was pretty badly bruised up no bones were broken. It will be some time before he will be back to work.

W. C. T. U. Thimble Bee.

Last Friday evening a combination of the W. C. T. U. "Thimble bee" and the annual "Dues Sociable" was held at the home of Mrs. R. L. Weston and Miss Rebecca Rhoads which was well attended and thoroughly enjoyed.

The "thimble bee" will meet tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. H. Olmstead on east Bishop street, and it is hoped there will be a good attendance. Every woman is most cordially invited.

HEARTY GOD-SPEEDS GO WITH SOLDIERS TO CAMP

Cheers for Large Group of Centre County Conscripts.

12 MORE GO ON MAY 14

Tuesday afternoon forty drafted men from Centre County left Bellefonte for Camp Lee, Virginia. They were all strong, hearty fellows who reported to Sheriff Yarnell on Monday. That evening they were given possession of the town and they had quite a jubilant time. Tuesday morning a large number of patriotic citizens of the county gathered here to witness their departure and to do honor to the event. As the conscripts started from the diamond, headed by Sheriff Yarnell and County Commissioner, D. A. Grove, followed by the Boys Band, of Milesburg, the imposing pageant marched down High Street followed by the large crowd, among them being parents, brothers, sisters and sweethearts of the young men who have been called to the front. On High Street the parade was intercepted by the student body of the Bellefonte Academy, under leadership and military discipline of Maj. Crissman, of State College, the new instructor at the Academy. This was a pleasing feature of the parade. The large crowd at the depot gave the boys a very enthusiastic send-off.

NEW VOTING PRECINCT.

Ferguson Township Voters Given a
Third District by Order of Court.

By order of Court a new voting precinct has been established in Ferguson Township, to be known as the North precinct. The order was issued on petition of citizens of the township adjacent to State College who heretofore have been compelled to go to Pine Grove Mills to vote. The voting place for the new precinct will be at H. N. Musser's store, at Struble station. The Court appointed Ezra Tressler judge of election for the new precinct, with Homer Walker and W. K. Corl as inspectors. Forest Neldigh has been appointed registration assessor. They will serve until their successors shall be elected in 1919.

Prior to the recent order of Court Ferguson Township had been divided into two precincts, known as the East and West precincts. The territory embraced in the new North precinct is as follows: Beginning at the southern corner of the Borough of State College; thence in a south easterly direction along the line of Harris and Ferguson Townships to the White Hall road; thence in a south westerly direction along the centre line of the White Hall road to the Pine Grove Mills road to the Gatesburg road; thence in a south westerly direction along centre of Gatesburg road to the Fairbrook road; thence along centre of Fairbrook road in a north westerly direction to the Patton Township line; thence in a north easterly direction along Patton Township line to line of College Township; thence along College Township line to State College Borough and along the western boundary of State College Borough to the place of beginning.

The Titan Metal Company's New Plant

The large press at the Titan Metal Company's new operation was put in operation Saturday afternoon. It works on the principle of an immense sausage stuffer and hot iron is pushed through the rods of any size, according to the die. Billets five and a half inches by twenty-one inches are placed in the press and it takes an immense pressure to rush the iron through the die. The starting up was a success as the plant is in charge of the most competent and skilled mechanics, together with excellent management. In course of time the old plant near Milesburg will be abandoned and all the output will come from the plant just south of town. Much of the machinery in the old place of business has been transferred to the new plant which is one of the best for its size in the State. The machine shop connected with this industry is equipped with the latest and the most improved machinery.

The Titan Metal is in great demand and the company is now in a position to place more of it on the market than ever before because it has better facilities than ever. It is to be hoped the industry will continue to grow until all the space the company owns out there will be covered with buildings, giving employment to an unlimited number of skilled mechanics and laboring men.

The offices of the company on Friday and Saturday were moved from the old plant to the rooms in Eagle Block formerly occupied by Gettig & Bower. They will be fitted up in the most improved style and thus it will be a pleasant place to do business. It will be more conveniently located than the old office and the managers will enjoy it more.

Base Ball Tomorrow Night.

The Bellefonte inter-war base ball league tried to open the season with a twilight game Tuesday evening at Hughes field but rain interfered before the fifth inning and matters had to be called off. The North Ward team was pretty well assured of cleaning up the South Ward when the game had to be called off. Friday evening the South and West Wards will battle for supremacy. Don't be a slacker. Turn out and attend these games. Proceeds for Red Cross.

Young Men Take Notice.

A Resolution has now passed both houses of Congress, which when it becomes law, as it undoubtedly will, will put all young men who have reached the age of 21 since June 5th 1917, in the draft. We would advise all men at that age to enlist now and pick what branch of the army they desire. All branches of the Army are now open. Applications can be made to Sergeant Anthony Betz, of the United States Army, DuBois, Pa.

Representative Harry B. Scott, Mr. Wynn and Ward Fleming, of Phillipsburg, were Bellefonte visitors yesterday. Mr. Scott said that he is receiving many assurances of support in his campaign for Republican nomination for the Legislature and that he is entirely confident of success at the primaries on May 21st.

A Successful Experiment

By GORTON CARRUTH

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

He put his paper aside abruptly, rose and walked down the leaf-strewn path to the other bench, where the girl was sitting.

"Would you like to try an experiment?" he asked quietly, standing with his hand on his hip.

She looked at him for a moment, smiling, her expression neither inviting nor repelling.

"Perhaps," she said at length.

"It is something I have often wanted to try," he said slowly. "Here are two, perfect strangers in a city of five millions, and never likely to see each other again after we leave this chance meeting place. We have sat here for half an hour, each pretending to read, or to watch the squirrels, or the falling leaves, or the misty golden sunshine out there on the field, but each examining and appraising the other when the other wasn't looking.

"Now, this is the experiment: We have each gained a strong first impression of the other. Let us, with absolute frankness, tell each other what those impressions are. Let us do what friends cannot do—speak without reservations, made for fear of hurting each other's feelings."

She sat without speaking for a moment after he had finished, gazing thoughtfully out at the warm expanse of autumn-tinted park.

"But why?" she asked at last. "I am not sure that Burns was right. Perhaps it is just as well that we can't see ourselves as others see us."

"That," he said, "makes it an experiment. It will be a new experience. I want to know exactly how I look in the eyes of a stranger, however much the knowledge may hurt. Have you ever felt that way?"

"Yes," she said, "I have. Everyone does, I think."

"Well, I'll tell you, if you will do as much for me."

Again she hesitated and sat silently watching a gray squirrel that untroubled by self-consciousness, was busy burying a nut.

"Well," she said finally, "you first." "The fact that I came over here and proposed this experiment to you at all shows that I thought you a sensible girl," he began slowly. "You impressed me as being neither a prude nor a flirt. You are pretty—I don't need to tell you that—but it has not spoiled you. You are rather thoughtful and studious, and you have a genuine feeling for the beauties of nature—something which too many girls just pretend to have. You are not above, I believe, taking an interest in babies and embroidery, although you know what is going on about you in the world and read something besides the woman's page in the newspapers. You don't work for your living, and your home is one of the comfortable houses in the Seventies. You see a good deal of the society side of life, but you keep healthfully busy at serious things. You are probably a suffragist in a quiet way, and you are also interested in some form of social or philanthropic work, which you do not treat as an heroically assumed duty. And—"

He was interrupted by the girl's low laughter. "Why not say that I have all the good qualities, and be done with it?" she asked. "Your impression is certainly not very accurate. Let's see if I can do better."

"You, it seems to me, have many of the excellent qualities that you are attributing to me. You are nothing of a 'sport,' but are a rather serious-minded young man, somewhat too much given to introspection. You are not bad looking, and you impress me as having a good deal of common sense. You are about twenty-five, and you are one of our rising young professional men—an architect, perhaps, or an engineer of some sort. You read a good deal, and when it comes to newspapers, something besides the sporting pages. You are rather domestic by nature, and you have a sense of humor. You also live in one of the better homes in the Seventies or the Eighties, and you are a confirmed New Yorker. There, how is that for a snapshot portrait?"

He did not answer at once, and they both sat silently for a few minutes. Presently he said gloomily:

"My experiment has failed, I'm afraid."

"Of course," she assented gently. "It was bound to. It shows of how little worth a first impression is, anyway. You wondered if the defects that you see in yourself were apparent to others, and you are half disappointed that they are not, for you do not like the idea of wearing a mask. Isn't that touching?"

"Yes."

"And yet you must have known, except in moments of self-depreciation that you make a favorable first impression; and I know that I do, conceded as that may sound."

"All right." He straightened up abruptly. "Then we come to the second part of this experiment. We will now tell just how badly each of us is mistaken."

"Well—" she hesitated. "We can try it, but that also is a pretty hard thing to do."

"Listen to me first," he answered. "While I tell you what a poor judge of character at first glance you are. I may have a sense of humor, but it doesn't work very well. I am gloomy, pessimistic and am rapidly developing into a chronic grouch. I am not one of our rising young professional men; I am a clerk in a large mercantile house, and there hasn't been anything startling in my rise yet. I may have common sense, but it doesn't keep me from making a fool of myself about half the time. I may be domestic by nature, but that's all the good it does me. So far from living in a brownstone house in the Eighties am I that I live in a single room down in the Twenties. I come from Michigan and am a comparative stranger in New York. I read a good deal, it is true, and you are right about the sporting page, but I don't believe that I ever had an original idea in my life. And—well, I might go on at considerable length, but how do you like the re-touched portrait, so far?"

The girl was laughing at him again. "I think the portrait none the worse," said she; "especially since you are clearly in a mood for self-disparagement. Let me alter your portrait of me a little. I hope that I am sensible. I'm not a flirt, but I'm not so sure that I am not conceited. I like babies and embroidery, but I'm not interested in charitable work and I do read the woman's pages in the newspapers. I don't live in a brownstone house in the Eighties, either, but have a room up in the One Hundred and Eighties. I earn my living by teaching a class of little Greek, Italian and Russian children down in an East Side school, and I don't move in any other society. I have a bad temper; I'm afraid my pupils suffer a good deal at times. No doubt, I am more studious than most girls but I like the movies and candy and all sorts of frivolous things very much. Now how do you like the re-touched?"

"Well," he admitted gravely, "I rather think it improves the portrait; it makes it so much more human."

They fell silent again, watching the sunshine on the colored trees.

"You are quite right about one thing," said the girl presently. "I love the trees and the fields and the sky. I was brought up in the country, and I don't believe I could stand it here in these endless miles of brick and stone, if it were not for the park."

"I come here often myself," the man said. "Do you?"

"Every Sunday afternoon. I like this spot best of all; the view is so beautiful."

"So do I."

The sun had left the trees and they could see the lights of the city twinkling like brilliant stars.

"Do you know," said the man, rising, "I think my experiment is not going to be a failure, after all, though it has not resulted as I expected."

"Perhaps it won't be," answered the girl quietly.

There was a moment's pause. Then: "I will say only—good-night," he said. "Good-night," she answered.

He turned and walked along the darkening path. As he reached the bend he broke into a cheerful whistle. The girl, smiling, walked briskly away. She was wondering what she would wear next Sunday afternoon, and he was trying to decide if it would be wise to take a box of candy with him.

HOW PIONEERS MADE CHANGE

Silver Dollars Were Quartered and "Sharp Shins" Were Result—Pelts Once Currency.

We of today, with half-dollars, quarter-dollars, dimes, nickels and pennies, often find it difficult to "make change." Still more difficult was it for the early settlers to do so, Martha G. Purcell writes in "Stories of Old Kentucky."

As the Indians used wampum, so the pioneers of Kentucky used the skins of wild animals as their first currency. While immigrants continued to come to this region, Spanish silver dollars came gradually into circulation. Still there was no small change.

As "necessity is the mother of invention," our forefathers actually made change by cutting the dollar into four equal parts, each worth 25 cents. These were again divided, each part worth 12½ cents, called bits. People sometimes became careless in the work of making change, and often cut the dollar into five "quarters" or into ten "eighths." On account of the wedge shape of these pieces of cut money, they were called "sharp shins."

If change was needed for a smaller sum than 12½ cents, merchants gave pins, needles, writing paper and such things.

This cut silver gradually found its way back to the mint for recoinage, usually to the loss of the last owner. As late as 1806, a business house in Philadelphia received 100 pounds of cut silver, brought on by a Kentucky merchant, which was sent on a dray to the United States mint for recoinage.

Concerning Natural Death.

Under normal conditions most complex animals have a characteristic and rather sharply defined duration of life. But one-celled animals, which reproduce by fission, are apparently immortal unless life is stopped by what may be called an accident, for as the cell divides in half, neither part may be called the parent, and both halves will go on reproducing. And by taking cuttings from a plant, a part of the original may be kept living indefinitely by repeated cuttings, while the parent plant dies at the close of its usual duration of life. Thus it would appear," concludes a writer in the Journal of Heredity, "that natural death is connected only with organisms which are composed of different organs which are inseparable."

The Christening.

"And what is the name of this child?" asked the minister ready for the ceremony.

"Well, you see, parson," said the plain-speaking father, "we haven't just decided yet. Wife wants him named after her uncle and I want him named after mine. Just flip up a cent, parson, and see which it is to be—heads I win."

Seats Not Comfortable.

"I am afraid I will lose my business," remarked A. J. Merrill, manager of the Princess theater at Evansville, the other day.

"And why?" wondered an innocent listener, who was noting the full house. "Well, you see the seats don't seem to be comfortable since the government put the tax on them."—Indianapolis News.

WHY ADVERTISE ONE'S WOES?

Silly Habit That Is Altogether Too Common Among Unthinking People of Both Sexes.

It is surprising to see how quickly a dark cloud can rise and completely overcast the fair, blue sky of a lovely summer day. Just as swiftly can the ill humor or ill health of one or two persons put a damper on a group of people.

We all know the woman who is constantly complaining of her chronic headache, her rheumatism, or the trouble she has with her servants; we stand in awful terror of the man who—with almost demonic glee—goes into all the gruesome details of his last operation; we groan—mentally, at least—when made to listen to the youth or maiden whose personal distresses monopolize the conversation. Each one is as welcome to an assembly of congenial souls as is the proverbial flea to the equally proverbial three-legged dog.

It is a capital idea for each of us to remember that our own experiences are rarely as interesting to others as to ourselves, unless told with the touch of an artist; and that fewer things are more difficult or more unpleasant to listen to than the recital of another's woes, particularly if that other is not a "intimate friend" in need of special advice and sympathy.

Let us keep the accounts of our grievances locked within our breasts until the tiny golden key of fitting opportunity is presented, and face the world with the countenance of a cheerful stoic and the consideration of a Sir Philip Sidney. Only thus may we be sure of creating about us an atmosphere of gentle breeding and good manners.—Elizabeth Van Rensselaer.

Cause of Car Sickness.

Car sickness, so common among children, is caused in the same way as seasickness, or the dizziness produced by spinning around rapidly or swinging. The fluid in the semi-circular canals of the ears is set in motion by the movement of the body and tends to keep on moving even after the body has come to a standstill.

Once accustomed to the new motion, the traveler acquires his "sea legs," and if he is at sea some time in rough weather he will need re-education for the stationary car on leaving the ship, for he will feel as if the land were away-lying under his feet.

TRASURER'S SALE OF UNSEATED LAND FOR NON-PAYMENT OF TAXES FOR THE YEARS 1916 AND 1917, as well as certain lots of Seated Lands.

In accordance with the provision of the Act of Assembly entitled "An Act directing the mode of selling unseated lands for taxes and other purposes," passed the 13th day of March, 1915, and the various supplements thereof, together with the other various Acts of Assembly relating thereto, I, David Chambers, Treasurer of the County of Centre, hereby give notice to all persons concerned, that unless the taxes due and remaining unpaid on the following described tracts or parts of tracts of unseated land, as well as such lots of seated land situated in said County of Centre, be paid before the day of sale, the whole or such part of each tract of said lands as will pay the taxes and costs chargeable thereon, will be exposed to public sale or outcry, at the Court House in the Borough of Bellefonte, in said county, commencing on the Second Monday of June next, (the 10th day thereof) and continuing, by adjournment from day to day, until all are sold.

HERE'S A PATRIOT.

George W. Gill is a young man whose home is in Julian. He has never been blessed with much in the way of wealth as measured in dollars and cents. He has always had to work hard to earn a living. But George Gill is blessed with that which is worth more than money at a time when our country needs help to win the war. He is blessed with a patriotism that should make some men blush—particularly men with great wealth but too selfish to help the country by buying Liberty Bonds. We want to tell you the story of George Gill. Its worth telling at the fireside of every American home throughout the land. He purchased a $50 Liberty Bond of the first issue. With $150 in his pocket, representing all the money he possessed, he went to the public meeting at Julian Saturday night and purchased three additional $50 bonds. In other words, he turned over every cent he had to help the government. And more, too. On Wednesday he departed with other Centre County drafted men for a training camp to make the supreme sacrifice if such shall be decreed for him by the hand of destiny. What more inspiring example could be even suggested. A red-blooded young American giving all his money and offering up his life to aid his country in the world-wide war to win everlasting peace. Here's a patriot, in the truest and fullest meaning of the word. All honor to him.

The report for the week ending April 20th, 1918, shows that Centre county had a per capita of twenty-two cents in the War-Savings Campaign, and that from December 1st, 1917, to April 20th our per capita is $3.16. Centre county is now ninth in the list of counties for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

I had the pleasure of attending the meeting of the County Chairmen in Philadelphia last Thursday, at which time addresses were made by ex-President William Howard Taft, National War-Savings Committee Chairman Frank B. Vanderlip, State Director, Mr. Robert K. Cassett, Mr. Ward M. Burgess, State Director for Nebraska, and a number of other men from Washington, D. C., who are especially interested in our national problems.

Arrangements have been perfected whereby on Tuesday, May 7th, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, at the Court House, Bellefonte, Pa., a meeting will be held at which time and place we will have with us the State Director, Mr. Robert K. Cassett; the Assistant State Director, Mr. Lincoln L. Eyre; and the Director for Counties, Mr. Edward C. Bendere. These men have active charge of the National War Savings Committee for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. They will outline fully and discuss at length what is known as the "Nebraska Plan," and also of "Pledge Week," which will commence on May 13th and end May 18th.

Your Chairman will expect a goodly number of the District Chairmen, Liberty Loan Committee and Solicitors, Secretaries of War-Savings Societies, authorized agents, post masters, ministers, school superintendents, and in fact any person who is interested in the boys at the front and those who will follow. You are therefore respectfully and urgently requested to be present at the meeting. It will be worth your while to attend the meeting. You can't afford to miss it.

There will be a roll call of the District Chairmen, and also of the ladies and gentlemen who compose the Liberty Loan Committee. The meeting will be called promptly at two o'clock. The gentlemen above named will give the necessary instructions whereby Centre county will get in line to go "Over the Top." It can be done. Let us not be satisfied until it is done. Nebraska by the same method has at this time received Pledges that will mean a per capita for every man, woman and child in that State of over $35.00. Centre county can do as well, and probably better.

With the sincere hope therefore that you will, without fail, attend this meeting, I am,

Very truly yours,
W. HARRISON WALKER,
Chairman National War-Savings Committee for Centre County.
Bellefonte, Pa.,
April 30th, 1918.

Electric Protection.
Many of the devices configured up for war service, under pressure of deep desires, will be useful for the piping times of peace. The Canadian aviator who has designed a way to keep a flier warm by equipping his suit with electric wires may be painting the dawn of a new day for people who live in apartments where the janitor is careless.—Montreal Star.

Subject to the rules of the Republican party. Primaries May 21st, 1918.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN:—Please announce that I am a candidate for Congress from the 21st district, subject to the decision of the Republican primaries on May 21st, 1918.

The present hour of our national life is one which may well inspire any patriot to participation in public affairs. Momentous questions of war and of peace are now under discussion and will continue to present delicate and complex problems for solution.

The constituency of the 21st Congressional District, which embraces the counties of Cameron, Centre, Clearfield and McKean, will designate by popular vote its choice for the important seat in Congress. We will cheerfully submit to the will of the majority.

In presenting my candidacy at this time, I declare my unqualified endorsement and assent to five fundamental matters:

1. Vigorous prosecution of the war to a successful climax.
2. The full weight of American influence for future protection against war, for international arbitration and for world-wide comity of nations.
3. Protection of American industry, with justice to both capital and labor, during the war and thereafter, along the line of policies which constitutes the platform of the Republican party.
4. The prohibition amendment to the constitution.
5. The woman suffrage amendment.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN RICHENSEN,
Bradford, McKean Co.,
Pennsylvania.

Mr. Harvey Indorsed

The Executive Board of the Centre County W. C. T. U., at a meeting held on Wednesday, April 17th, received the resignation of Miss Rebecca N. Rhoads, for some years president, who will shortly sail for France. The resignation was not accepted, but leave of absence was extended until her return. The following resolution was adopted:—

WHEREAS, Such an important bill as the Ratification of the Prohibition Amendment may be passed or defeated in our state this coming year;

WHEREAS, The temperance sentiment has shown a great increase recently and thus, this being a time when great things may be done for Pennsylvania if the church and temperance people might only be stirred to aggression;

WHEREAS, Centre County has sent a man to the Legislature the past two terms, whose record shows that he has voted against some most important good measures;

WHEREAS, Mr. Ives Harvey, a strong out and out temperance man, has consented to run as candidate for the Republican nomination for next Assembly;

WHEREAS, The Democratic Party has a wet candidate only; be it,

RESOLVED, That we, the W. C. T. U. of Centre County, not having the power of the ballot ourselves, strenuously do urge the Christian voters to do their utmost to secure the nomination of Mr. Harvey so that, at the general election, Centre County may have a candidate who stands for all good measures.

Tyrone Boy State's Captain.

Pennsylvania State's baseball nine has elected David Blair Mingle, Jr., of Tyrone, captain of the Blue & White team for next season. He is a second baseman. Illness kept the captain-elect on the bench during the Carnegie Tech game on Wednesday, which was State's only diamond contest of the year. Mingle is a senior in the school of engineering, and is president of the State College Athletic association.

Harry Teats Dead.

At one time one of the familiar faces on the streets of Bellefonte was Harry Teats, who for years was head clerk in Sechler & Co's grocery store. He was a very pleasant gentleman and while here had numerous friends. About thirty years ago he left Bellefonte and located in Curwensville where he went into the grocery business. About two weeks ago he fell down the steps leading into the cellar of his store when his hip was fractured. He worried more or less about his mishap and on last Thursday afternoon he passed away. Had he lived until the 19th day of June he would have been 83 years of age. Up until the time of his death he had been a very active man and was always found in his store attending to business. He was born and raised in Millheim. He was married twice, both of his wives being dead. His first wife was Miss Catherine Long, of Richmond, Indiana, and was well known in Bellefonte. To this union there were no children. His second wife was Miss Alice Sykes, of Curwensville, and to this union there is one daughter, Jane Teats, 16 years of age, residing at home. The deceased leaves no brothers or sisters. Mrs. John Finkbinder, of Bellefonte, is a niece. He belonged to the Presbyterian church and was true to his Christian belief. He was the oldest man in Curwensville. The funeral took place Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Genevieve E. Bilger Dead.

Miss Genevieve Elizabeth Bilger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bilger, a well known and highly esteemed young lady of Bellefonte, passed peacefully away at the home of her parents on Willowbank Street, early Monday morning April 29th, 1918, after a lingering illness due to tuberculosis. Miss Bilger was born at Pleasant Gap, September 16, 1895, thus her age was 22 years, 7 months and 13 days. The young lady contracted a heavy cold several years ago and during her long illness bore the encroachments of disease with a winsome fortitude that won the hearts and admiration of a wide circle of friends who deeply mourn her untimely death. She leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Bilger, with two sisters; Roxie and Geraldine, both at home. Funeral services were held this Thursday afternoon in her late home at 2 o'clock, conducted by her pastor, Dr. Ezra H. Yocum, of the Methodist church. Burial was made in the Pleasant Gap cemetery.

Death of Mrs. M. J. O. Hannon.

Mrs. Margaret Jane Overton Hannon, widow of the late John Hannon, died Wednesday, April 24, following an invalidism of a number of years. She was a direct descendant of several long lines of ancestors, some of whom were men and women of note in the Revolutionary War. Mrs. Hannon led a rather retired, but a religious life, impressing those who came under her influence with her sincerity and desire to do good. Her friends and church were dear to her throughout her life. She was a most faithful member of the Christian Church at Howard, her home town. Those of her immediate family who are left to sorrow for her are a son, William Overton Hannon, Wadsworth, Ohio; Mrs. Bolton, Atlantic City; Mrs. Martz, Reading and her sister Miss Overton, of Bellefonte. Mrs. Hannon was buried at Jacksonville by the side of her husband and two daughters.

Death of Mrs. S. M. S. Inlow.

Mrs. Sarah Mitchell Struble Inlow passed away in the Municipal Hospital, Philadelphia, Monday afternoon after a short illness with diphtheria. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Struble, of Struble Station, near State College. In 1858, while visiting in Kansas, with her father, she was married to H. Albert Inlow and located in the west. About three years ago her husband died and afterwards she returned east and lived with her parents. After their death, several years ago she went to Philadelphia and since then had been spending her time in that city and Atlantic. She is survived by one sister, Miss Maybelle Struble of Washington, D. C. The remains were brought to Bellefonte this (Thursday) morning and in the afternoon they were taken to Pine Grove Mills for interment.

Appoints New Teachers.

Seven additions to the Pennsylvania State College teaching staff were announced recently following a meeting of the executive committee of the board of trustees. The new appointees are:

Miss Lucretia V. T. Simmons, of Mills College, California, was made dean of the women's department; Miss Edith P. Chace, of Columbia University, director of home economics; S. W. Frost, of the United States bureau of entomology, was appointed instructor in entomological research; W. S. Hagar, T. F. Nelan, and R. S. Clark, of the 1918 graduating class, were appointed agricultural extension representatives, and L. S. Cressman, made a teaching fellow in military science.

Mrs. Charles Frazer Dead.

Mrs. Charles Frazer, whose home is near Aronsburg, died Tuesday night at the Bellefonte hospital. She underwent an operation on Saturday of last week. She is survived by a husband and ten children. Funeral services will be held from the late home on Saturday.

WHEAT WILL WIN THE WAR

Eat It, and You Help the Hun;
Save It, and You Fight
For Freedom.

THE WORLD FACES A CRISIS

America's Problem is to Feed Her Allies—Her Own Food Supply is Already Safe.

"Not less important than the military crisis in Europe is the food situation in the whole world and the entire food problem centers around the wheat supply. Wheat will win the war—or lose it," is a terse and pointed statement of Howard Heinz, U. S. Food Administrator for Pennsylvania.

It has now become a race among three factors, with the odds against our side. These three factors are the approach of the next harvest, the rapid diminution of wheat stocks among the allied nations and the conservation measures put into effect by the patriotic people of the United States in their efforts to piece out a narrow surplus for an anxious world.

Among these factors the next harvest creeps forward all too slowly; the supply in the bins of the Allies is sinking rapidly. If the situation were limited to these two—if it were a competition between them alone—the race would already be lost. It is only increased conservation in America that will keep starvation from being the victor.

The Allies must and will be fed.

America must and will save.

Our food supply already has been protected. There is no danger here. But the time has come to shovel the wheat by carloads and shiploads into the transportation channels that lead to Europe. America can live on the plentiful remainders, the cornmeal, potatoes, meat, all of which by grace of nature and careful conservation are abundant.

The Food Administrator for Pennsylvania has recently put forth some stirring calls for wheat saving. America as a whole must cut her wheat consumption in two, and more than in two. From 42,000,000 bushels a month she must cut consumption to 20,000,000 bushels. To accomplish this, each American must cut his individual consumption to six pounds per month. Out of the limited stocks in the country we must save stocks for seed, some 80,000,000 bushels, we must retain a safe carry-over, and we must feed our own citizens; and the United States with Canada must send to the Allies 40,000,000 bushels of wheat a month.

The moral is plain. Large numbers of our people must eat no wheat whatever for three months or this great task we have undertaken is doomed to failure. Already the great hotels have taken the pledge, men and women of independent means have fallen into line.

Which would you prefer—to eat bread lavishly and live in a world tributary to Germany, or eat no wheat until the next harvest and be free?

POTATO FLOUR COMING INTO USE

Even Cake That "Melts in the Mouth" Can be Made by Using This Product.

To most people Potato Flour is a brand-new commodity, utterly unknown until the Wheat Substitute Ruling went into effect. Potato Flour has been known in Europe for years previous to the war; quantities were imported from Germany, and sold at a fancy price for various baking purposes.

One woman, near Philadelphia, established a reputation for cake baking by her use of potato flour. For a long time she had to get all of her supply from Boston, but finally she found it could be purchased in the leading retail stores in Philadelphia. She used potato flour in a sponge cake recipe and for eight years carried off every prize at the county fair. This sponge cake is of the most delicate texture, literally "melts in one's mouth." Any one can make this cake by using potato flour. This potato flour can now be purchased in most any grocery store and while it is not a cheap article, it is sufficiently inexpensive to be worth while for cake baking.

Some of our mothers tell how, during the Civil War, one of the weekly duties of some households was to prepare potatoes so that starch could be readily obtained. The potatoes were washed and when thinly sliced in a tub, covered with water and after some hours of soaking quantities of pure potato starch could be found at the bottom. However, because it is nearly pure starch, a little bit of potato flour goes a long way. In cake and fancy pastry its use should be encouraged and increased by the careful housewife.

There are many substitutes for wheat flour, but no substitutes for peace.

Silent pro-German appetites are as hostile to the Allied cause as dishonorable utterances.

DO YOU WANT HIM TO FIGHT FOR YOU AND STARVE, TOO?

—By De Mar, in the Philadelphia Record.

A PRACTICAL FLOUR CARD FOR THE HOME

Howard Heinz, U. S. Food Administrator for Pennsylvania, suggests the following plan for home rationing of wheat flour, in those families where total abstinence from wheat is impossible:

FLOUR AND BREAD RATIONS PER PERSON PER WEEK	NUMBER IN FAMILY.
	1	2	3	4	5	6
For families doing own baking, using flour for all miscellaneous purposes, including crackers, macaroni, pies, cakes, etc.....	1½	3	4½	6	7½	9
Where families buy Victory Bread they should limit the use of it as follows, as a maximum.....	1¾	3½	5¼	7	8¾	10½
In families where Victory bread is used, the wheat flour ration for all other purposes, including pies, cakes, crackers and macaroni purchased, etc. should be a maximum of.....	½	1	1½	2	2½	3

Less flour should be used if possible.

'EAT POTATOES, GROW POTATOES, SAVE WHEAT,' THE NATION'S CALL

The campaign inaugurated by Howard Heinz, U. S. Food Administrator for Pennsylvania, for the increased consumption of potatoes has only a few more weeks to run, but in that period it will be pushed with the utmost vigor. "Eat potatoes" is still the watchword of the food savers of this state. "Eat potatoes" will continue to be the watchword until there is a plentiful supply of wheat for the needs of Europe as well as America. That situation may come next fall and it may not; much depends on the weather, the labor supply in the wheat fields, and other factors.

"Produce potatoes" will continue to be the advice of the Food Administration, whether the wheat supply shall be plentiful or small. Potatoes are a good and economical food. The demand for them was increased this spring. The public taste has been educated to their use, and the knowledge of various modes of preparing them has been widely spread. In short, the potato campaign of the Food Administration has been a success. People have eaten and have been educated to eat more potatoes. A wise farmer will take his tip from this knowledge.

In Pennsylvania, this year, although there was an unusually abundant 1917 crop held over, the farmers are planting large acreages again, although not so large as last year. It is the belief of the officers of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture that the farmer who plants potatoes this year will reap a profitable crop in the fall. Both the Food Administration and the Department of Agriculture are advising the farmers of the Keystone State to plant potatoes.

Germany gets 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre on the average; the United States less than 100 bushels. Germany raises five times as many potatoes as the United States in less than one-tenth of our area. We can and we will do as well.

But that is for the future; for now, the program is "Eat Potatoes, Produce Potatoes, Save Wheat," and by doing to fulfill our obligation to our Allies.

VARY YOUR DIET; WE ARE AT WAR

Director Crutchfield Tells Housewives to Watch and Be Governed by "Fair Price" Lists.

"The people of Pennsylvania can get along comfortably and in plenty, so far as food is concerned, during the ensuing months or until the end of the war if they will only observe the ordinary rules of supply and demand in certain lines of food essentials," said J. S. Crutchfield, Assistant to U. S. Food Administrator Heinz, and Director of the Division of Distribution and General Markets.

"The question facing the people is not one of restricted diet, but of a varied diet. A knowledge of these conditions is really essential to the comfort and happiness of our people. It has been tersely put by one of Mr. Hoover's assistants in Washington, that the eating of wheat flour bread is a habit."

"In the days of our fore-fathers wheat flour was a luxury. Their staple diet was corn in its various forms, and no healthier or happier people could be found on this hemisphere. But while we are asked to restrict ourselves in the consumption of wheat flour, there are a score or more of other articles of diet that can make up this shortage. It is simply a question of adapting ourselves.

"For instance, we are approaching a time of year when the markets will be filled with the finest of vegetables, considering the war-time; the prices of these vegetables will rise and fall with the supply. No housewife need be ignorant of the most varied and palatable methods of preparing vegetables to take the place of wheat. Indeed, it would be far better for the health of the country if more vegetables were eaten, even under normal circumstances.

THE PASS WORD—"WAR"

"We have got to reach the place each one of us, where we define every decision in our lives as an act of war policy.

"Everything that we do, plan, eat, wear, must be analyzed and measured from one single point of view—will it contribute to the carrying on of the war, or will it contribute to its prolongation?"—Dr. Alfonso Taylor.

A Warning to Boys.

Every day one of the sights at the Bellefonte P. R. R. passenger station is some smart boy trying to see how close he can walk to a moving train, jumping on it or walking over the track in front of it. That there have not been more accidents is simply miraculous. Here is a warning to this class of boys and they would do well to heed it.

The 6 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Conklin of Clearfield lost both feet by being run over by a New York Central freight train in that town Friday evening last. The boy, with other lads, was sitting on the railroad track when a freight train came along. The Conklin boy is said to have tried to see how near the train could get to him before he had to move, with the above consequence. One foot was amputated at the ankle and the other just below the knee.

A Strong Home Talent Entertainment.

The play to be given on May 13 by strong home talent, promises to be one of the best ever staged in Bellefonte. The selection of this particular play and the cast, under the direction of Miss Baer, spells, beforehand, an unsurpassed success. The proceeds will be devoted entirely to the War Funds now being created by the Daughters of the American Revolution. The Academy Orchestra will furnish the music which, in itself, will be a pleasing feature.

The Bellefonte D. A. R. is not running in opposition to the Red Cross; on the contrary it is a lively factor in both the Red Cross and the Navy League. The Chapter desires, however, to specialize in a line of patriotic work outside of the activities of other societies, and for this reason seeks patronage for the entertainment on May 13.

Schwab at Hog Island.

Charles M. Schwab, the new director general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, spent Liberty Day inspecting the Hog Island shipbuilding plant near Philadelphia on Saturday.

"I am delighted with the progress of the work at Hog Island," said Mr. Schwab that night. "It is a tremendous undertaking and they are handling it in a tremendous way. It is one of the biggest places I have ever seen in my whole experience. I am exceedingly optimistic about the outcome of our work there and feel that it will not be a disappointment."

A Good Spirit.

One of the first acts of Charles M. Schwab, after he had been named director general of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, was to go into conference with Edward N. Hurley, chairman of the United States shipping board. "I am willing to take orders from you, Mr. Schwab," said Mr. Hurley. "I am not here to give orders, but to carry them out," replied Mr. Schwab. This is the spirit in which the new organization has been launched.

COMING IN ALL ENTIRETY.

Sparks World's Famous Shows to Visit Bellefonte for One Day Only.

Four hundred people employed and carrying over two hundred foreign and domestic animals, is the statement made by Mr. Ralph Dammertell, agent for the Sparks Shows, who was in town last Thursday making arrangements for the appearance of this big circus here on Thursday, May 23rd.

The strange colony of people, handsome horses, rare wild animals and the golden caravans are scheduled to arrive here during the early hours of the morning of the above date in their own special trains from Tyrone, where they will exhibit the day before.

Circus day will begin with a big street parade at 10:30 a. m. and two performances will be given, the first starting at parade at 10:30 a. m. and two performances at 2 o'clock and the other at 8 o'clock.

The grounds known as the Old Glass Works Meadow have been arranged for by the agent and a number of our merchants will receive contracts to furnish immense quantities of feed stuff for both man and beast.

The Sparks World Famous Shows have been successfully established for the past twenty-seven years and bear a reputation second to none for the high class exhibitions presented and the honest manner they have of dealing with the public, no gambling or grafting being tolerated or carried with these shows.

Camp Life.

Percy Miller who left Bellefonte with the Boal Troop for Camp Hancock in the early stages of the war, reached Bellefonte last Thursday and left again on Friday evening. He was here on a few hours furlough for the purpose of saying good bye before sailing for France. He came from Camp Upton, N. Y., and returned there to await orders to cross. He is now in the automobile squadron and it is altogether likely he will be detailed to take munitions to the front. This, of course, is hazardous but Percy will move forward and not backward.

In speaking of camp life he says that to be a soldier is no joke but a stern reality. The boys are on the go from 5.30 in the morning until 4 in the afternoon. If it is not drilling on the field it is something else. Its drill, drill and march, march. To salute an officer it must be done quickly and in military order. Should he take his time he would be called down or penalized. The other day he marched twenty-two miles with a sixty-pound knapsack strapped on his back. When he returned he was practically all in. The gas room is a fierce place to go and remain for half an hour to an hour at a time. There is a tank filled with the deadly gas, as the Germans are using on the Americans in the front. The soldier who enters must use a mask and should it accidentally fall off it would mean instant death. Any jewelry worn would turn black in a very few minutes. This practice is to familiarize the soldiers with the realities of war in the trenches and teach them how to overcome its deadly effects.

Another practice is handling the bayonet. The soldier stands before a dummy and for an hour or more shoves the instrument of war into the fake man. This practice is to teach the boys the skill and science protecting himself during an encounter with the enemy. It is very tiresome and the young soldier is glad when this practice is over.

Twenty Years Ago.

In looking back twenty years ago the Phillipsburg Ledger of last Friday says: Mr. James L. Somerville and daughter Bessie, of Winburne, attended the reception given Mr. John Wanamaker in the Wheel Club House. It will be remembered that Mr. Somerville was at one time a prominent resident of Bellefonte and with A. J. Cook, now of Bellefonte, James Irvin, of Snow Shoe, were officially connected with the Bellefonte and Snow Shoe Railroad company of which the late Daniel Rhoads was president.

Miss Vera Snook took the 4.55 train Friday evening for Bellefonte to spend Sunday at her home there.

The court of quarter sessions is holding at Bellefonte this week, and about a car load of Phillipsburg men left here Monday morning for that point.

Mrs. Aaron Smith was called to Unionville Friday evening by the serious condition of her father, Mr. Elijah Fisher, who has been ill for a long time but is rapidly failing now.

Witmer-Rockey.

A quite wedding was that at the Reformed parsonage in Boalsburg last Thursday when Miss Della M. Rockey became the wife of Claude J. Witmer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. C. Stover. The groom is a young progressive farmer of Ferguson township, while the bride is from State College and a highly respected young lady. They will reside on the Witmer homestead near Meek's church. Their hosts of friends now offer their congratulations and wish them a happy and prosperous life.

Unclaimed Letters.

The following letters remain unclaimed in the Bellefonte postoffice:

Mrs. Cora Ellen, G. H. Follows, Edward Purer, Mrs. Robert Huff, Judge Smith.

It's Now Lieut. Roy Grove.

Roy H. Grove, of Bellefonte, solicitor and collector for the Bell Telephone Company, received a letter last Friday from P. D. Beary, Adjutant General of Pennsylvania, apprising him of the fact that he had been directed by Martin Brumbaugh, Governor and Commander-in-chief of the National Guard, to advise him that on Thursday he had been appointed a Second Lieutenant of Cavalry, Pennsylvania Reserve Militia, with rank as such from date. The order also stated he was assigned as Second Lieutenant of Cavalry to the Machine Gun Detachment, Squadron Cavalry, and directed to report immediately in person or by letter to Major H. Laird Curtin, at Curtin, Pa., for duty. Proper announcement and assignment will be made from the Adjutant General's office at Harrisburg.

No better appointment of this kind could have been made. Lieutenant Grove is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Grove of near Bellefonte, and in every way is well qualified for the post. He is honest, trustworthy and will make a commanding appearance in uniform. He wrote to the department for the appointment and upon his own merits received it.

Burket G. Coffman.

Burket G. Coffman, of Mt. Union, was found dead in bed at 9 o'clock Saturday morning while on a visit to his parents at Altoona. Death was due to heart disease. Mr. Coffman went to Altoona on Friday evening from Mt. Union where he was employed for the past year in the powder plant. He was born at Lock Haven May 18th, 1878, the son of George W. and Catharine Coffman. Surviving are the parents and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. Ella Williams, William Coffman, Mrs. May Reidenbaugh, Mrs. Clara Uilery and A. G. Coffman, all of Altoona, and Alden, in the medical corps of the army and Mrs. Ruth Norris, of Philadelphia. He was a member of the Presbyterian church. Funeral services were held at the home of the parents, at 2.30 o'clock, Monday afternoon. Interment was made in Rose Hill cemetery.

The parents of the young man at one time resided in Bellefonte. His father is a plumber and worked for Archibald Allison.

Buy a Liberty Bond.

Bellefonte and Centre County will surely be in the front line when the totals of the Third Loan Drive are footed up. Old Centre County, the home of three governors of Pennsylvania, will be there with the goods, and don't you forget it. The farmer and the wage earners have too much personal pride to falter, just now, at this most critical point in the history of the United States. Let no man or woman in Centre County have it said they were slackers. Buy a Bond and do it now.

Remember when you are asked to buy a Liberty Bond you are not being solicited to part with anything. You are asked to make a guilt edged investment, with every dollar's worth of property between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans as security. The "Drive" ends next Saturday so you want to loosen the strings of your pocketbook within the next days.

Down to Work.

The special training of the 189 enlisted men sent to State College by the government, is progressing very rapidly. Dean Sackett gave them a preliminary talk concerning the purpose of this special instruction to fit men for the various lines necessary to support the field work of the signal corps, especially the Airplane Division.

The men were divided into groups by Captain Murray, according to their experience for training in the four special lines of electrical, machine shops, forging and carpentry work. Many of the men have had considerable experience as electricians, locomotive and stationary engineers, machinists' helpers, blacksmiths and helpers. One man owned a plumbing and electrical supply establishment; another was a chief electrician; another was a lawyer, and several were clerks.

FIGHTING SPIRIT STRONG IN FARMERS

Dairy Director Hogue Says He Has Never Met a Pacifist Among Them.

Have you ever met a farmer pacifist? The chances are you have not. An any rate, George E. Hogue, director of the Dairy Bureau of the New York state department of farms and markets, says that he has met none, although he has very wide acquaintance among men in agricultural lines. Mr. Hogue said:

"I have been familiar with farming conditions all my life, and my acquaintance with the farmers leads me to believe that as large a proportion are truly patriotic as those engaged in other professions. I have yet to meet them to be as deeply interested in winning the war as any body of men in our nation. I am confident that every farmer who is able will buy Liberty Bonds, and I am sure many of them who are best qualified would gladly act on the committees in their respective counties and towns.

"The farmers have met with many disappointments and discouragements resulting from the unsettled war conditions, and their patience in many instances has been sorely tried. But he, with all others, has learned to bear with these things as incidents of warfare. The last season he demonstrated that he could increase production even with the shortage of labor that existed, the increase in some products being so great that instead of a scarcity there is today found to be a real surplus. I believe he will again the coming season more than do his bit in raising food and will also respond readily in purchasing Liberty Bonds. I know of no safer investment."

LIBERTY LOAN FUNDS SAVE SOLDIERS' LIVES

A large part of the money raised by the Third Liberty Loan will be spent on barrages. A barrage is a curtain of fire put down over a battlefield by guns of all calibre.

Figures have been supplied to the United States war department showing the cost of the British barrage on the Messines-Wyschaete ridge in June, 1917, over a front of 11,000 yards. The British reported that the number of their casualties was small considering the magnitude of the operation.

In six days' preparatory bombardment 1,250,541 shells were fired at a cost of $43,146,535; on the seventh day, when the attack was made, 707,834 shells were fired, costing $20,424,700, making a total of 1,958,375 shells, costing $63,571,235.

Without adequate barrage preparation the lives of American troops would be endlessly wasted at the front. Liberty dollars invested in barrages will save them.

A New Swindle.

Parents of Centre County soldiers in camp are warned by the War Department of a swindle which has been successfully operated in various camps. A telegram is sent informing that the soldier has a furlough, and requesting funds by wire to come home, waiving identification. The rest is a mere matter of detail. Parents and friends should be warned of this game and of similar ones where the telegraphic request is to mail money to the soldiers, care general delivery.

Coalless Monday

By MARCIA MEREDITH

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Will you please get off the wire?" The voice, though young and feminine, was not entirely pleasant.

"I believe I took my receiver off first," came back good-naturedly. "I am trying to get the janitor. Are you the janitor's wife?"

"How ridiculous! Where is the elevator boy to answer the phone? I want the janitor."

A laugh came back through the telephone. "Everybody wants the janitor. The last I heard he had gone out to try and buy soft coal. I dare say you're in the same boat that I am—frozen to death in your apartment. You know it won't do any good to kick, but, like me, nothing else will keep you warm."

There was no answer. Freda Tilson's receiver slammed back on the hook that held it, and if she had been inclined to talk to herself in her little apartment she might have muttered something about an impatient creature who dared to talk to a girl when he did not know her, and that she hadn't the most remote idea who it was. That would have been a fib, however, for she really did know that it was the young man who dwelt in bachelor state in the somewhat more spacious and luxurious apartment in front of her own, the greater luxury and higher rent of his apartment being due to the fact that while he managed to draw to himself a weekly check for $75 for writing "thrillers" for a popular weekly, she pounded a typewriter somewhere in the "downtown" district to the tune of sixty a month.

To her, having an apartment of her own, with a little place she could call home, was a luxury that she had earned by much economy in the way of amusement and pretty clothes. His living there was put down to his New England origin, for Victor Paige was more of a miser than a spend-thrift, and he would rather dine alone on the simple fare that his visiting colored housekeeper made for him than to spend many ducats in alluring restaurants. Now it happened that the typewriter that Freda Tilson pounded was located in the very office whither Victor Paige occasionally strolled to deliver his manuscript, and mayhap chin with the editor. Perhaps she felt a secret grievance, because, though she had noticed the coincidence that he frequented her office and also abode under the same roof, he had sought no excuse to speak to her as they passed in the halls going home or venturing forth. It does seem strange that Victor never sought the excuse, for Freda would have been good to speak to. And there was nothing repelling in her round blue eyes. But then, Victor came from New England.

As Freda performed the task of dusting and straightening up her little apartment, clad in the chin in a sweater and wearing gloves on her hands as she worked, she listened intently for a ring at her doorbell that would mean that the letter she was waiting for had come. When all chance of the delivery was over she descended to the entrance to make sure that the boy in attendance there had not failed to deliver it to her.

Strange that Victor Paige should have gone forth at the same time. He waited while she made her complaint.

"In the first place," she said, "it is perfectly ridiculous that on the one day in the week when we have to be home, and when it would really seem that apartments and houses ought to have enough coal to make them comfortable, we should be made to suffer in this way. How I am ever going to write on my typewriter, with hands stiff from cold, is more than I can tell. It seems most extraordinary that my manuscripts did not come by the mail this morning. My office is closed, and it is absolutely necessary for me to typewrite some revised manuscript that the editor was sending by special delivery. Are you quite sure nothing has come for me?"

The dusky kitchen attendant nodded in the negative.

"And is there no hope of any heat?" Again a negative nod.

"Well, then, the only thing for me to do is to go and get some oil. Thank goodness, I bought a stove."

Now it was Victor's inning. Having heard Freda's plaint and the unsatisfactory replies, he did not mention the frigid atmosphere that prevailed in his apartment as well as in hers.

"I say, Obadiah—beg pardon, I forgot your name was Hannibal—you haven't seen anything of a stray messenger boy with a typewriter, have you? Of course you haven't. But, you see, the place I usually dictate my copy is closed, and I was going to pound it out for myself today, so I sent for a typewriter. But I guess they had too many orders before mine. Well, if there's no hope for heat I'll have to burn oil."

And he returned to his rooms, calling the name of Dinah, who came every day at noon to keep house for him, blessed, because she had suggested to him that when steam heat failed the temperature could be improved by burning oil stoves.

The fact that fate had some deep design in choosing to have Victor Paige and Freda Tilson take apartments in the same house really might have been suspected when, a quarter of an hour later, another accidental meeting occurred. It was at the corner grocery, Freda came hurrying in with the base of an old stove, her self-consciousness at having to carry this awkward burden only making her cheeks pinker and her eyes rounder. "Please fill this with oil," she told the grocer's boy, and then blushed a little rosier as she realized that Victor Paige was standing at her elbow. He took his hat off, and then, when Freda averted her look he awkwardly waved his hat in the air and stroked the cat with the brim of it to try to convince himself that he had meant to take it off anyway, and that he was not a bit embarrassed by Freda's hauteur.

"We ain't got no oil—all sold out," came from the grocer's boy, just as Victor Paige was inquiring of the grocer himself whether it happened that oil stoves were a part of his equipment. In the grocery store back in his New England home town he recalled that such trifling articles were always sold. And as the grocer assured him that the only places to get such things were the household furnishing stores, and they were all closed because it was coalless Monday, he confided to him. He knew the grocer didn't care, and he didn't care whether he did care, but he spoke in a loud, clear voice. Could it have been that it was for Freda's benefit?

"You see, the woman that keeps house for me suggested that if I bought some oil I could manage to keep warm, even when the steam was not up in the apartment, and I was such an ass as to forget that one really needed something to burn it in. I have a gallon of oil, but what good does that do?"

Freda did listen, and for just one moment she was tempted to tell her neighbor that between the two they might manage to get some sort of result. But she didn't tell him. She hurried home, walking faster and faster as she heard his footsteps behind her. He overtook her just as she reached the landing off which both their apartments opened, and would have spoken to her only that she closed the door rather unceremoniously in his face. She knew she had been rude, but for some unaccountable reasons she took satisfaction in her heartlessness.

A half hour later, when Victor Paige answered a slight ring at his doorbell, he wore a skating cap, a bathrobe, an overcoat, hockey stockings and galoshes. He found Freda Tilson on the landing. She was very sorry to disturb him, she told him, but she had received word from the editor in the office where she worked that, because he had been unable to dispatch some copy for her to do at home, he would like her to put in the day taking dictation on the typewriter from Mr. Paige. Wasn't it funny that Mr. Paige happened to be connected with the same office? Did he wish to come into her apartment, or should she come into his? There was small choice; both were Arctic.

Ten minutes later Victor Paige, carrying an odoriferous gallon of kerosene, some ill-kempt notes on stray bits of paper, and a dish of apples—Victor could not write without apples for refreshment—went into Freda's small apartment. When lunch time came Freda had forgotten her resentment, and Victor, truth to tell, was as much in love with her as he had ever been with any girl.

"If I had some eggs I'd make an omelet and ask you to lunch," she said, just a little timidly.

And although Victor knew that his Dinah was coming to make lunch in his apartment that day, he hurried to get some eggs that he was right in guessing she had left in his ice box. And so they lunched, and so they worked on through the afternoon.

"What's the use of resisting the inevitable," he said as she handed him the last page of his manuscript from her typewriter. "We can't either of us get along without the other. We would both have been miserable today alone."

"It does seem strange. Do you believe in fate?"

And apparently Victor did, for he was always sure it was fate that threw him and his wife together that coalless Monday.

High Cost of Patches.

There is no economy in patches. You may have a frugal wife who persists in patching your trousers, but you always feel miserable and degraded in such garments. They make you feel like a thief, or like 30 cents in counterfeit money. You are forever trying to hide them from view.

I have worn them myself and I know how uneasy a man feels in good society when he expects each gust of wind to fan his coat tails aside, exposing his wife's needlework. Zim writes in Cartoons. A patch in the seat of your trousers, if it be accidentally exposed in public, will reduce your market value 99 1/2 per cent. If you cannot afford so sudden and enormous a decline in your stocks, you'd better accept a fool's advice and unload your holey belongings upon the ragman before your wife gets out her darned needle and patch bag.

Strenuous Reform.

"Tommy, you musn't play with that Little Gruppins boy. His manners need mending."

"That's all right, ma. I'm working on his manners. If they don't improve in a day or two I lose my standing as the hardest hittin' kid in my block."

Feminine Finance.

He—You must remember, dear, we are just starting out in life and we must economize.

She—But don't you think getting into debt is the best way? Then we'll have to economize.

Have you bought 'till it hurts?

THIS advertisement isn't written or published to convince you that you ought to buy Liberty Bonds. It assumes that you have good enough business judgment to see that there never was a safer or better investment; that you already have bought as many Liberty Bonds as you think you can afford.

What we want to urge is that you buy more than you think you can afford; buy 'till it hurts.

Just remember that the boys in France are not only doing your fighting, but they are doing your dying too.

You're going to get your money back with interest; nobody's going to give our soldiers' lives back. Don't stop with what you've already bought; make sacrifices to buy more; they're small in comparison with what our fighting men are doing.

Let's all take inventory and then buy more and help to oversubscribe the third loan at least 3 times
